HAWORTH | SWINBURNE EDGE

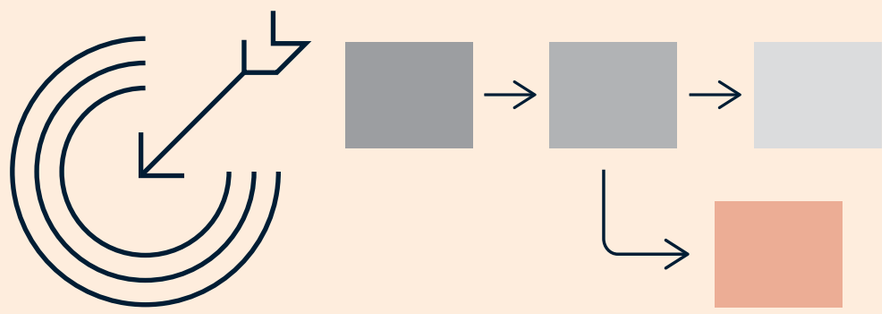

How do I get people back to the office?

This is still a time of discovery for many of our clients, but you can't just sit back and wait for a solution to present itself.

Now is the time to try new process or workshop to engage employees and define new outcomes.

Some easy to implement changes include setting some guidelines around WFH, workshopping with employees to figure out what tasks are best done in the office vs at home, and understanding the spaces needed to facilitate those tasks.

Haworth and Swinburne Edge can partner to help guide you through a hybrid working framework that works for you and your employees.
For further information contact us here.