HAWORTH | SWINBURNE EDGE

How will I know if this investment in changing our way of working will be worth it ?

Outlaying costs is always a big decision, so we recommend a smaller short term pilot space to gain insights into how your future hybrid workplace could look.

Ensuring you are measuring your employees satisfaction with new settings or organisational guidelines, as well as your attraction and retention, will be key.

Once feedback has been taken on board and a new workplace has been designed, ongoing involvement with Swinburne Edge and Haworth is important to ensure the investment is working, or highlight areas that need amending.

If you would like more information on our partnership and how we can help your organisations transition to hybrid working contact us here.