

Honeywell

Perth, Australia

Case Study

Haworth and global technology giant, Honeywell have a long history – we've worked closely with the company to fit out its Shanghai campus. So when it decided to push through a fast update to its Perth office after 38 years of occupation, Honeywell naturally turned to us to deliver workspace solutions that would foster greater creativity, productivity and space-saving features while allowing for future growth.

We worked alongside global design firm, Unispace, to meet Honeywell's exact needs. Intuity forms the backbone of the fitout with straight benching, 120-degree workstations, private office return desks and meeting tables creating a dynamic work environment that fosters greater performance and productivity while nurturing a culture that's open to embracing new ideas.

These are matched with a range of EZ65 task chairs, Very side chairs, wire stackers and stools and Orbit tables in various sizes to provide flexible options that support every kind of workstyle.

Added M-series storage systems and credenzas ensure floorspaces remain optimised at all times – employees are also encouraged to make full use of lockers with numeric locks and business card slots to store their personal items rather than around their desk or in drawers.

Multiple breakout and client areas feature Landscape, Cwitch, Perimater, and Pace lounges with Mama Bear lounge chairs and Eddy height-adjustable tables. Castledex caddies with cushions and pedestals plus tambours with planters create a more relaxed vibe, while Cwitch media units relay essential company information and offer opportunities for 21st-century presentations.
