

Lud'ina

Lud'ina is a new table or desk version of the successful Lud'o Lounge armchair. Faithful to its original concept, even this new design displays a recycled plastic structure and is available with various solutions for the base and removable upholstery in a selection of fabrics and leathers from the collection, each one conveying a different meaning, from the sporty to the most formal one, fitting like a tailored suit.

Features

- Structure in recyclable plastic material
- Available with different base solutions
- Removable cover in selection of fabrics and leathers of the collection
- Winner of the 70th edition of the Good Design Award

Design by
