HAWORTH®

Dexina AG, Böblingen

The move to its new 600-square-metre office at Forum 1 on Böblingen's Flugfeld development not only enabled the Dexina AG to accommodate its growing workforce, but also presented an opportunity to implement its vision for a revolutionary new workspace concept. With "Live@ Work 2020", the thriving business consultancy and project development firm has created the kind of office environment it recommends to its clients: an environment where even the managing director is hot-desking, where colleagues can bring their children to the office, where the staff kitchen is better equipped than most people's kitchen at home, and where the lounge area is so comfortable that nobody really wants to go home anyway.

Instead of bland rows of desks, the Dexina office provides a place for communication and creative teamwork, taking the needs of staff members into account. And this includes toddler-friendly parent-child offices, a generously sized kitchen and secluded quiet spaces for focussing on creative solo work.

Haworth's integrated office solutions were the ideal choice for Dexina's multifunctional spaces. Together with Haworth's sales partner sps project, unique and innovative solutions were developed and implemented to meet the client's unconventional requirements. The few remaining "fixed" workstations as well as the flexible desk-sharing workspaces were equipped with a T-leg version of the Kiron desk system. All desks are height-adjustable allowing staff to work in both a seated or standing position. Ergonomic Comforto 59 swivel chairs perfectly complement the office design giving it a functional and aesthetic touch.

For the seminar and event spaces, Very conference chairs were chosen, while the infinitely versatile Vados cupboards serve as room partitions providing plenty of storage space, a place to leave notebooks while charging – and, of course, personal locker space for work utensils and paperwork.
