Seating

As today's workforce grows increasingly mobile, offices are destinations valued for connections and activities. People seek spaces that offer choice for creative work, and alternative places to collaborate or focus. They also look for balance in the workplace through warmer colors and natural materials.

Maari™ is a family of seating family that artfully blends beauty, form, and function. Maari is everywhere—providing complete comfort for seated activities that occur throughout the day. Maari brings balance to the workspace and fosters well-being for people who work there.

One Shell, Many Bases

The heart of Maari is a one-piece, delicately textured, molded shell—the same for all chairs. The fresh, expressive Maari design and discreet details let designers add personality and aesthetic continuity through finishes and colors. Maari offers numerous functional combinations to specify in almost any setting.

One Chair, Many Spaces

With Maari, organizations can furnish many spaces with one family of seating. From active work chairs to guest seating and stools, its versatile statement of line provides flexibility in specification for a breadth of application needs, making Maari adaptable to any space.

Complete Comfort

Influenced by our knowledge of seat and back contours and Patricia Urquiola's design vision, Maari supports both focus and collaborative work modes. Maari active work chairs offer complete comfort without the complication of multiple adjustments, while a soft, organic shape provides visual comfort.

Design Choices

For flexibility across a floorplate, choose from a mix of materials—wood, steel, aluminum, and fabric—as well as nine shell colors, seven base colors, and three wood options. Create a monochromatic look with select colors by matching the shell, base, and arms. All non-upholstered Maari seating is bleach cleanable, for easy care and disinfection. A tablet surface with dual-pivot arm in paint, laminate, and wood finishes is also available on the Maari 5-star base chair to create a personal workspace anywhere.

Statement of line may vary by global region.

Designed by Patricia Urquiola
