Elevate
the Office
Experience

We all crave social and spontaneous interactions, which are so important to our collaborative work environments. And the best collaboration happens when we meet in person. Successful organizations understand this recipe for fostering culture and driving innovation. Support your people’s needs to do their best and watch the creative sparks fly. Ancillary spaces and products are fundamental for the future office landscape as floorplates shift to accommodate a mix of individual and group spaces. Organizations that nurture collaboration will see culture flourish.

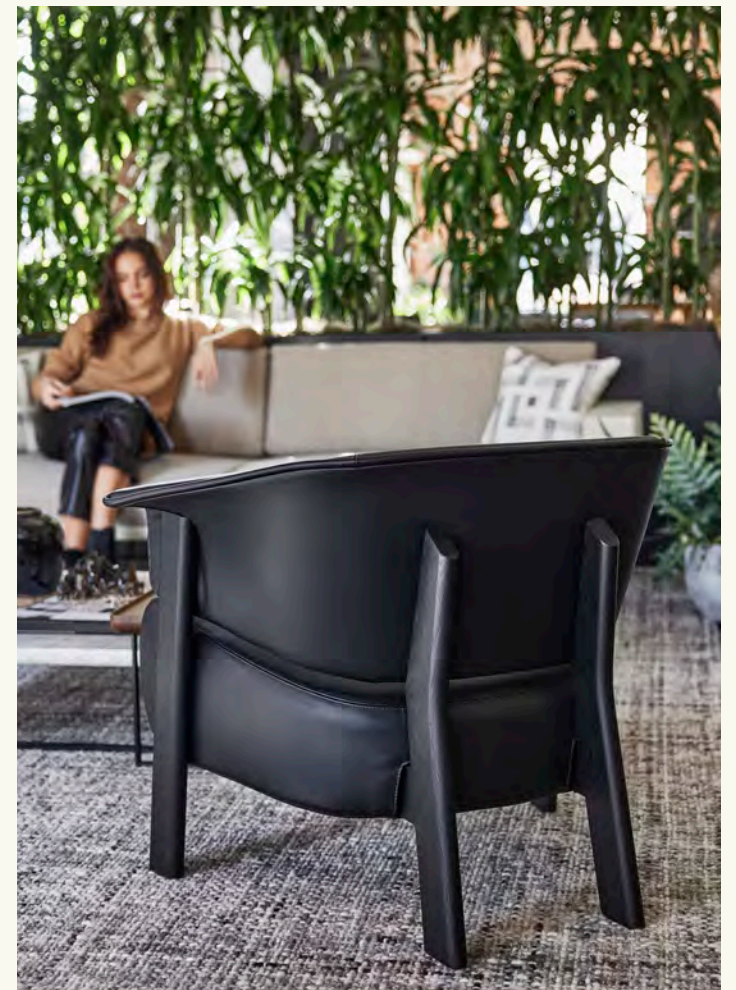

Ancillary spaces offer flexibility for group focus and restorative activities. They put us at ease, encourage conversation, and elevate the office experience. They help us stay engaged and nurture well-being. Ancillary spaces are adaptable, inspiring places to gather, connect, and restore, supporting the growing need for collaborative activities and emerging workstyles.

“It’s all about what amenities, what makes people happy, how we keep people comfortable. The office of the future has to be conducive to working, it has to be functional, but it also has to bring out the feeling of ‘I’m so glad I’m here and able to talk to everyone.’”

Lauren Rottet
Architect & Designer

The office has evolved quickly. Spaces have been redesigned to better fit organizational cultures. Designers have emphasized community and ancillary spaces to support interaction while people are in the office. It's all about bringing the comforts of home into the workplace. Ancillary furnishings are of the lounge variety, free from harsh edges. Along with softer or natural lighting, body contouring sofas, cushy pillows, and luxurious poufs—all covered in lush, textured fabrics—they provide a cozy, comfortable atmosphere that lets you focus or restore.

Since 2011, Haworth has been curating a portfolio of products from Cappellini, Cassina, and Poltrona Frau. We have continued to expand our offering over the years with the additions of many great products, brands, and partner brands that align with our design-forward approach. As a multicultural organization, we embrace the strength that comes from diversity of experiences.

Through our brand and partner relationships we expand our knowledge and competency of every environment—bringing this expertise and craft to you, no matter where you are located.

At Haworth, we believe great spaces empower people to thrive and work their best. As a leading global furniture maker, we are steeped in workplace expertise that fuels innovative designs for optimal performance.

We live and breathe interiors. Through our diversity of global brands, we expand our knowledge in every interior environment, bringing this expertise and craft to workspace solutions. We delight our customers with curated interior choices from iconic brands that expand our portfolio for more application variety and choice.

Poltrona Frau

Founded in 1912, one brand with three souls: handmade in Italy furnishings, custom solutions for public and private spaces, and luxury interiors for cars, aviation, and yachting.

Poltrona Frau is a beautiful blend of heritage, elegant creativity, handwork, technology, and the finest materials, including leather. It is quintessentially Italian with over 110 years of heritage in crafting upholstered furnishings and accessories for homes and public spaces, as well as servicing and upholstering the interiors for the luxury automotive, aviation, and yachting sectors.

Cassina

Design excellence, rooted in the history of modern classics with a vision toward the future.

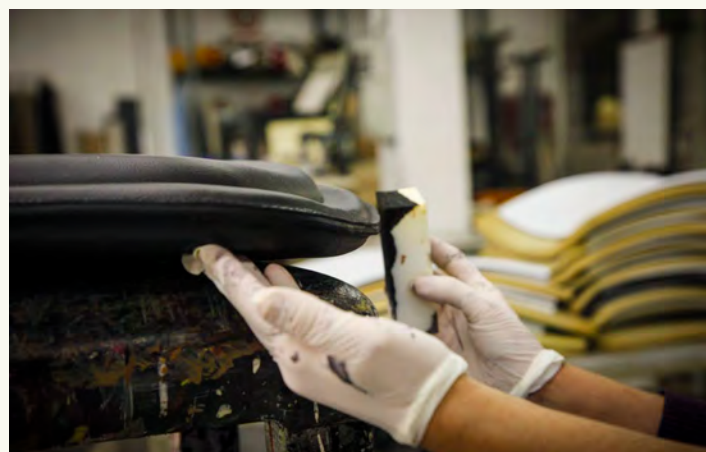

Always future focused, Cassina addresses contemporary lifestyles with the creation of complete and harmonious atmospheres. Its constant commitment to research and innovation, combining technological skill and traditional craftsmanship, is embodied in a unique, eclectic collection that spans over 12 decades of design excellence.

Cappellini

An icon of modern design with a passion for experimentation.

Cappellini has become synonymous for contemporary and avant-garde design, featuring a collection marked by creativity and expertise, combined with a passion for experimentation. The brand has become known for its instantly recognizable designs. Quality and craftsmanship lead the way, from each unique design profile to how it's made.

JANUS et Cie

Indoor elegance and outdoor performance, inspired by nature.

JANUS et Cie is an industry leader in design-driven furnishings for the outdoors, delivering nature's inspiration to build environments to support connection, balance, and well-being. JANUS et Cie is committed to what's next—not only in materials and engineering, but also in supporting the future needs of individuals and organizations.

Each brand brings extraordinary craftsmanship and a unique perspective to our customers' workspace design. Together, we have a rich design heritage and push the boundaries of what's possible for the future of work.

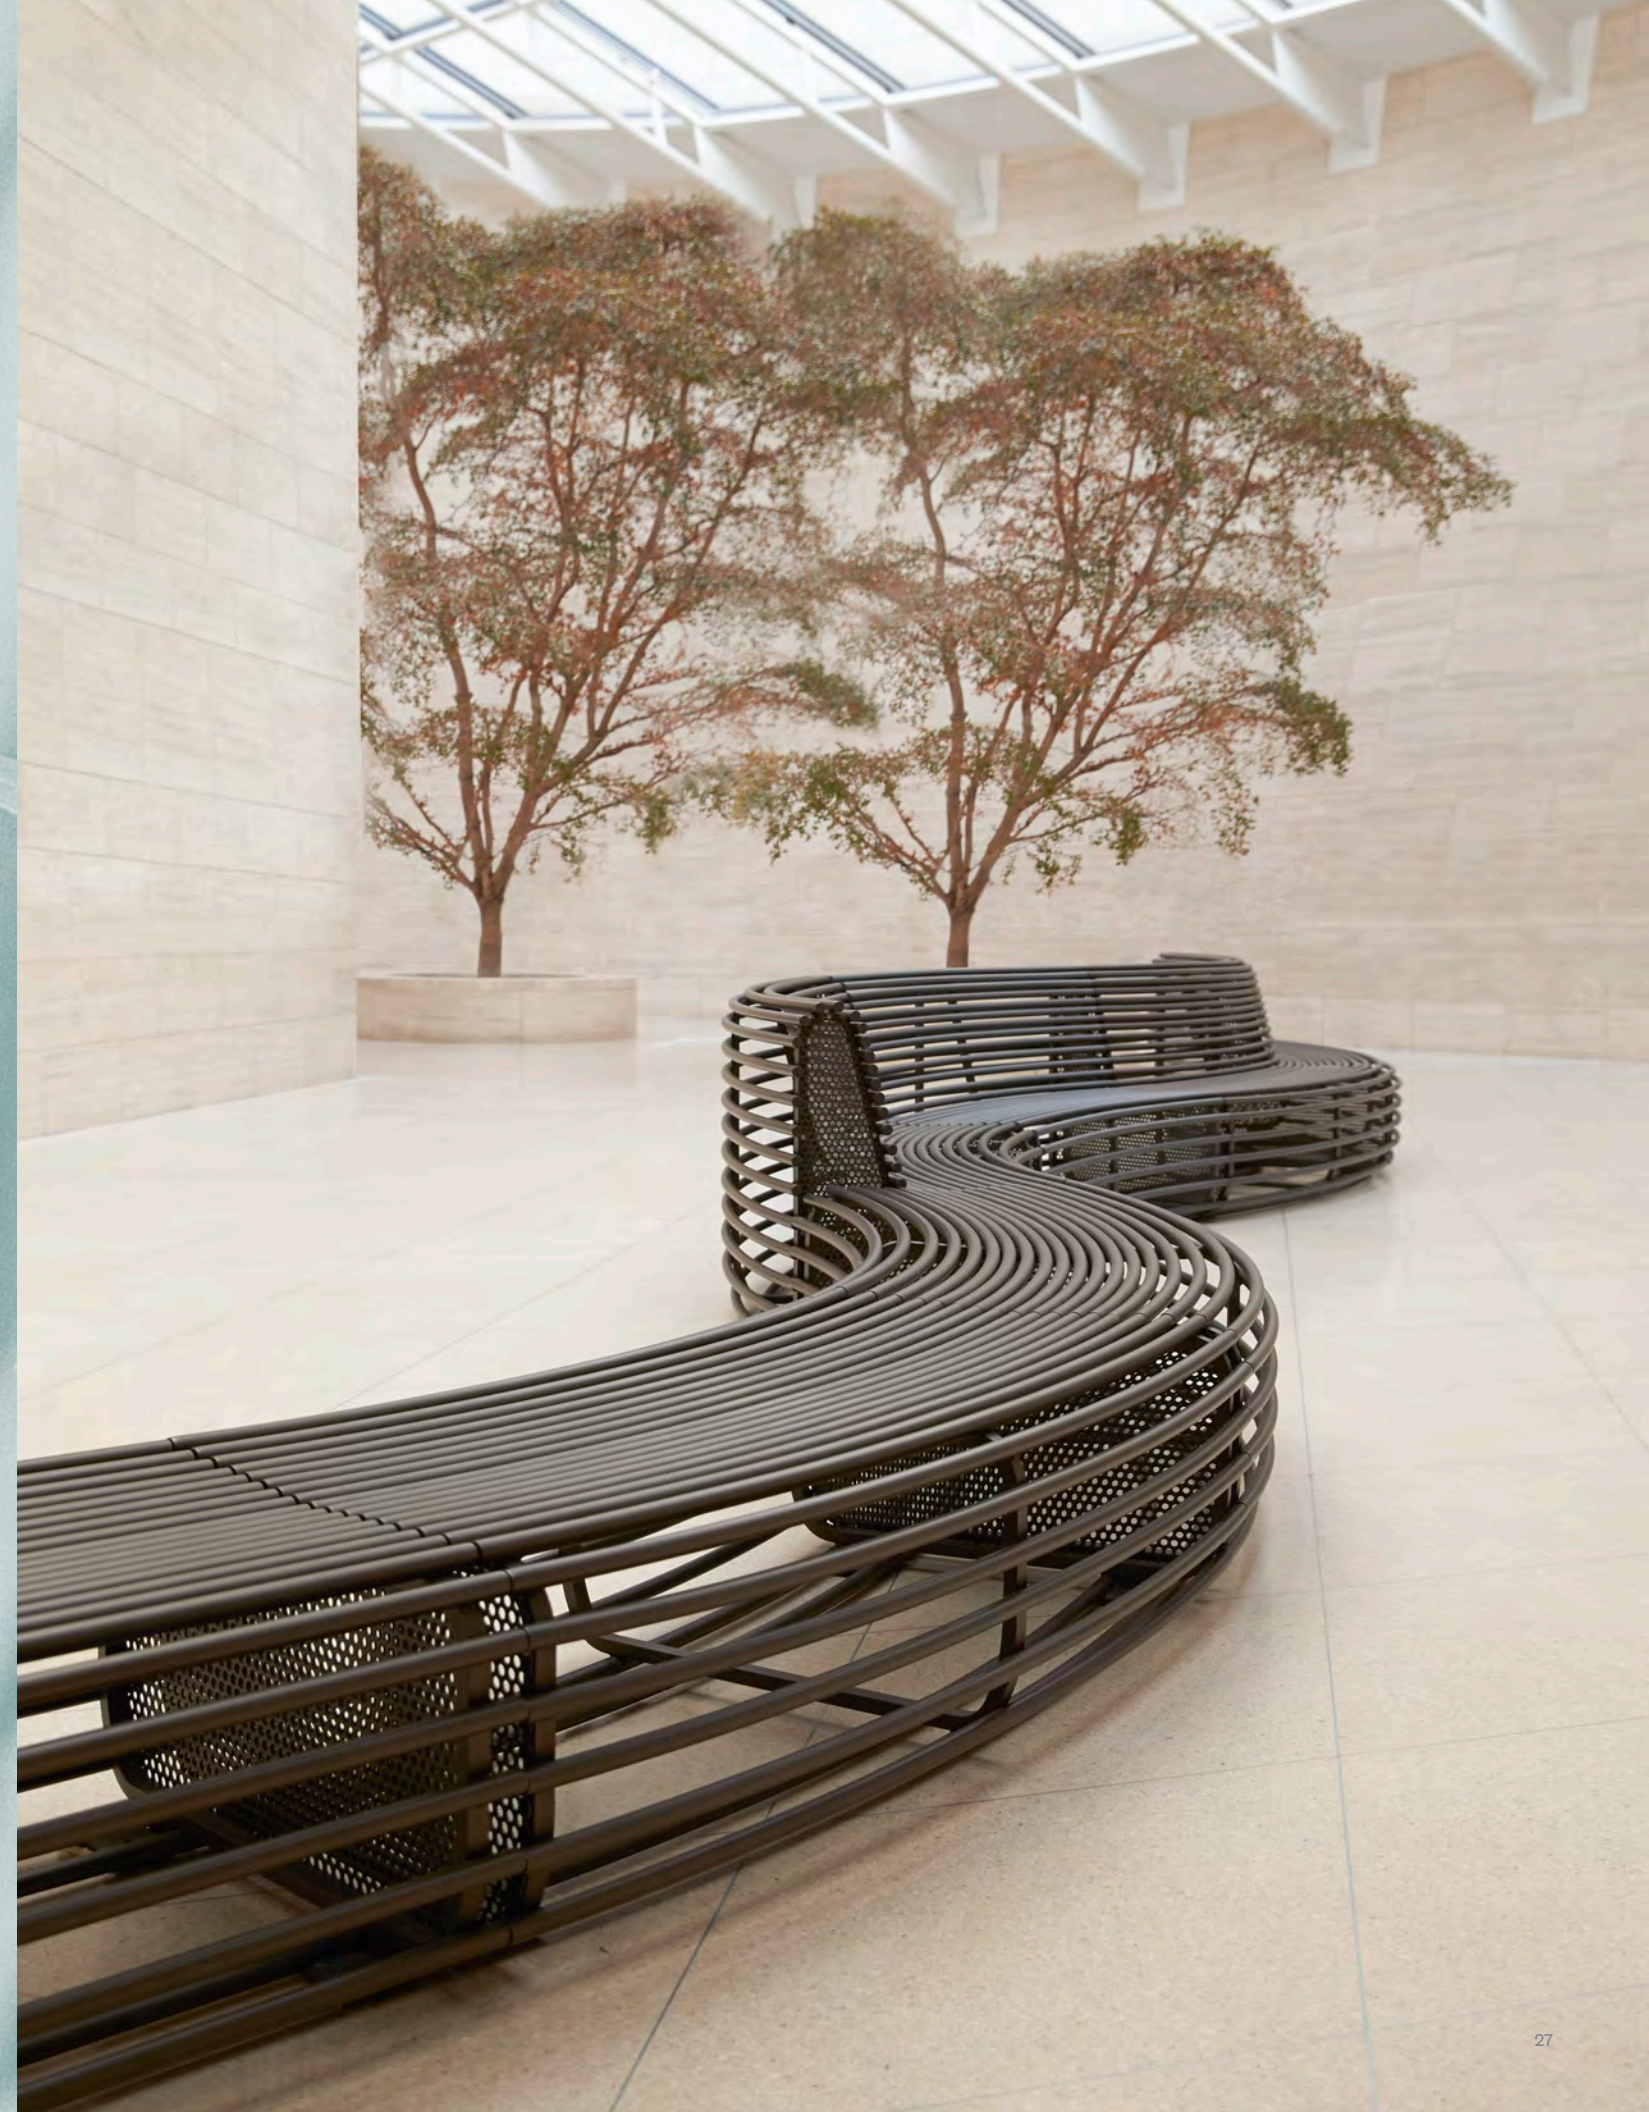

Outdoors is the New In

Take a pause and consider a change of scenery. Take a break—or take all your work—outside. We humans innately crave connection to nature—and all the health-infusing, mood-boosting benefits it offers. According to growing research, spending more time outdoors is good for our health.

The connection to natural light affects our circadian rhythms, which impact the length and quality of our sleep. Being in nature—even as little as five hours a month, or roughly 10 minutes a day—will help us feel happier and more connected to the world around us. The payoff is that being outdoors inspires more collaboration and creativity.

Providing areas for connection, restoration, and focus will help create the kinds of experiences that draw people to the workplace. The essence and the DNA of a brand is directly tied to an employee’s connection to the workplace, as well as its culture and community.

As we see an increased desire for outdoor living spaces in the residential market, we also see that same demand for outdoor spaces in the workplace. “The type of furniture and the capabilities of that furniture are essential,” said Alexis Contant, JANUS et Cie’s Vice President of Marketing.

JANUS et Cie delivers nature’s inspiration to the workplace, specializing in modern outdoor furniture that creates spaces for connection, balance, and well-being. It’s beautifully designed furniture, ready for you to work on the patio. “Outdoor furniture—especially furniture for cafeterias—is the most moved furniture in the entire company, so mobility, stackability, and cleanability are critical,” Alexis said.

JANUS et Cie’s outdoor commercial furniture is designed to enhance indoor spaces and engineered to withstand outdoor elements. From indoor atriums to rooftop lounges, JANUS et Cie specializes in creating out-of-the-ordinary ancillary spaces with modern outdoor furniture that fosters connections and leaves a lasting impression.

JANUS et Cie's outdoor commercial furniture is designed to enhance indoor spaces and engineered to withstand outdoor elements.

“Outdoor spaces are now becoming the highest premium of return on investment. They are often the first place that an employee, client, or investor sees.”

Familiar Yet Refreshing

Jasper Morrison is a leading British designer, best known for his work in furniture, lighting, tableware, and everyday products. He seeks to design objects that fit seamlessly into everyday surroundings—pieces that are reduced visually to their essential needs.

R I S

SUPER

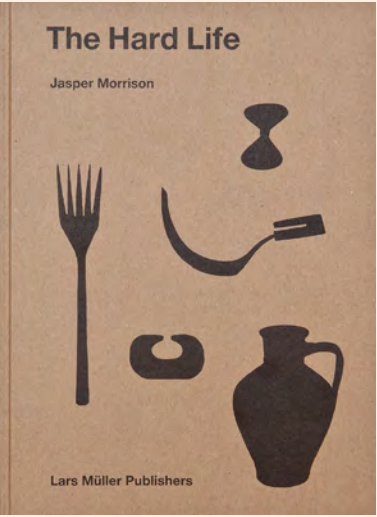

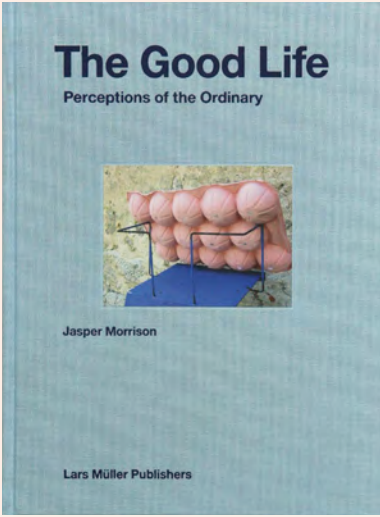

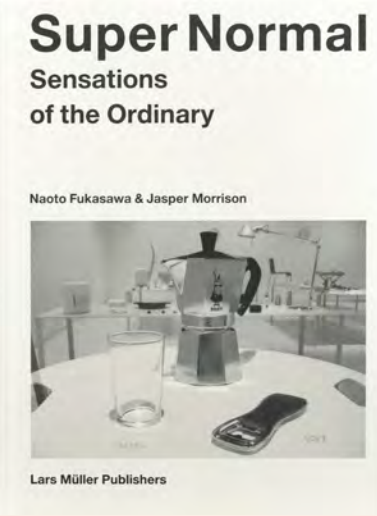

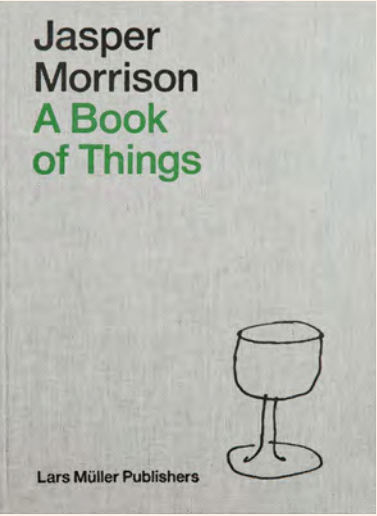

Jasper also began a long and fruitful collaboration with Giulio Cappellini, which led to the introduction of more than 30 highly successful products as part of the Cappellini collection. Jasper's rigorous attention to details, including materials, shapes, engineering, comfort, finish, and color exemplify designs like the Thinking Man's chair, the Low Pad lounge chair, and the Elan and Orla sofas.

He honed his expertise in designing objects that are simple and familiar in form yet characterful and refreshing, infusing his projects with a minimalist elegance that makes them extremely modern.

Jasper's approach to design was reflected in the 2006 exhibition Super Normal, which he organized in Japan with designer Naoto Fukasawa. Their approach was to take everyday objects in our lives—a spoon, a coffee pot, eyeglasses—and underscore their beauty.

NORMAL

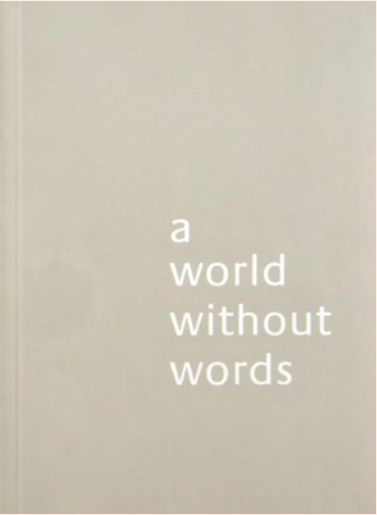

It was at Super Normal where Jasper connected with Emeco owner Gregg Buchbinder, who noted their “common appreciation for the invisible qualities behind simplicity” that inspired the 1 Inch, Alfi, and Navy Officer seating collections.

Super Normal also inspired the opening of the Jasper Morrison Shop beside his London studio in 2009. The Shop sells his designs alongside products from around the world, as well as his publications. The books not only capture Jasper's intellectual perspective, but also express his interest in the artifacts themselves, which began when he bought and sold second-hand art and design books to earn money as a student. Products in the Shop are displayed such that they require looking and searching, so each time you visit you may discover something you haven't seen before.

One of the most successful industrial designers of the past few decades, Jasper's designs are represented in the Museum of Modern Art in New York and other prominent museum collections around the world.

“A while ago I found some heavy old hand-blown wine glasses in a junk shop. At first it was just their shape which attracted my attention, but slowly, using them every day, they have become something more than just nice shapes, and I notice their presence in other ways. If I use a different type of glass, for example, I feel something missing in the atmosphere of the table. When I use them the atmosphere returns, and each sip of wine’s a pleasure even if the wine is not. If I even catch a look at them on the shelf they radiate something good. This quota of atmospheric spirit is the most mysterious and elusive quality in objects.”

Super Normal, 2006, from Super Normal Manifesto
Published by Lars Müller Publishers

“Corks,” a series of furniture realized from the cork oak tree, made its debut at Jasper’s first solo gallery exhibition in North America. Jasper’s interest in cork stems from its functionality and unique qualities. This iteration of the material is reconstituted from wine bottle corks, some still visible in their original shape.

TAILORED COMFORT, RESPONSIBLY MADE

Introducing Haworth Cardigan

As work environments become more flexible and collaborative, the need for ancillary products like lounge seating is increasing. Spaces need to balance functional activities and sensory experiences that inspire creativity, and support social connections. When we feel engaged and connected to our work, we are happier and more motivated to perform our best.

Haworth Cardigan lounge exemplifies the pillars behind our collaborative product design approach: global innovation, sustainably made. Created in partnership with Patricia Urquiola, it was designed to support ancillary spaces with a visually inspiring, light-scale form that delivers unparalleled comfort. Its aesthetically striking design blends creativity and innovation for a simple, efficient design concept. Haworth Cardigan lounge communicates extreme comfort and lightness at first sight in a spatial icon.

Taking its name from a form-fitting cardigan sweater, Haworth Cardigan lounge is reminiscent of how knitwear adapts to the body’s curves. The Digital Knit textile elegantly accentuates the silhouette. Innovation was key to the development process, using knit-to-fit technology: Fabric cuts are no longer necessary, creating zero waste—just like a 3D print product, made to order. The Digital Knit back and cushion cover are produced from 100% recycled PET, keeping 91 bottles per chair out of landfills.

The chair's malleable seat back supports different postures and a variety of uses—in a relaxed cocoon-like seating experience for casual interactions or restorative individual activities. The pliable “ribs” on the back add visual interest while creating structure and support where needed. The Digital Knit textile offers a soft and warm feel with variability in texture and color created by the ripples of ribs.

Product designs that consider environmental, social, and economic factors support a circular economy aimed at eliminating waste and the continual use of resources. Optimizing resource use and minimizing the impact of buildings, packaging, manufacturing, and transportation results in product solutions with smaller carbon footprints and healthier work environments.

Haworth worked closely with Patricia Urquiola to create a design that reflects our collective values to make the world better—reducing the materials, weight, and cost compared to a classic lounge chair. Haworth Cardigan lounge is Haworth's first chair to eliminate glues, with a strong focus on modularity to allow for easy disassembly and material separation—contributing to the product's circularity. Even the seat material is made from a more sustainable alternative, with the use of biomass-balanced foam that entirely avoids fossil sources, resulting in an 80% reduction in CO2 in the foam seat.

Haworth Cardigan lounge was specifically designed to meet the evolving needs of the future office. It's like a comfortable nest—a cocoon that draws people in to relax and restore. It's so lightweight, anyone can easily slide it over to their favorite corner. The flexible seatback accommodates various postures and activities, from casual interactions with colleagues to focused work sessions. Haworth Cardigan lounge seamlessly adapts to Work from Anywhere applications—from a restorative respite to the conviviality of a spaces where people gather.

“Cardigan was an occasion to do a product with simplicity—to find a way to create products without any kind of leftovers in the way they are produced.”
